As you know, Cynthia Baldwin will conclude her service as vice president and general counsel on June 30. Steve Dunham is slated to begin his service in that role on July 16 subject to Board of Trustees approval on July 13. Thus, we will have a two-week period in early July when we will need an interim general counsel.

I'm pleased to announce that Mark Faulkner, Penn State's associate general counsel, has agreed to serve in the interim role beginning July 1. Mark is currently based at the Hershey Medical Center, but will be available to provide leadership for legal matters across all University locations during the period of his service.

I have personally worked with Mark on a number of legal matters over the past 17 years, and I have every confidence that he will serve Penn State in a distinguished manner as interim general counsel.

With best wishes,

Rod
